MARIONETTE NOIR EXPOSES THE ARCHITECTURE OF DECEPTION IN NEW SINGLE: “A COWARD’S LITTLE CIRCUS”

MINNEAPOLIS, MN — Songwriter and producer Marionette Noir announces the arrival of “A Coward’s Little Circus,” a high-contrast Melodic Noir anthem set for official release on February 20, 2026. Centered on the clinical dismantling of performative authority, the track marks a definitive shift in the artist’s Anthology, signaling that the creative midway is officially under new management.

“A Coward’s Little Circus” acts as an autopsy of “organized chaos”; a term once wielded as a badge of pride by the subject, now revealed as a hollow facade. The song documents the precise moment the house lights come up to expose the “shadow behind the curtain,” transforming a season of manufactured pain into a data point of reclamation. From the haunting void of a “ghost of a best friend” to the aggressive “bleaching of every surface” to erase shared history, Noir captures the visceral reality of surviving a curated illusion.

About Marionette Noir

Operating under the “Conductor” philosophy, Marionette Noir curates a sonic museum of human experience, utilizing proprietary SovereignAI™ processes to maintain absolute creative sovereignty. Based in Minneapolis, the project is dedicated to the Melodic Noir tradition, exhuming the “vocal ghosts” of the past to architect the sound of the future.
