Marionette Noir Releases Happy Pill: A 30-Year Musical Ghost Finally Brought to Life

Minneapolis, MN – After thirty years of living as a melody in the mind of songwriter and producer Marionette Noir, the gritty soul-blues single Happy Pill is set for official release on February 6, 2026.

Happy Pill is a cinematic reclamation. The track explores the tension of performative survival, utilizing a haunting blend of vintage soul and industrial-gothic textures. The lyrics, originally penned three decades ago, capture a dark, theatrical narrative of trading one's heart for a clockwork beat on a neon stage.

"This song has been playing in my head since the 90s," says Marionette Noir. "Bringing it to life now, using modern production tools to finally exhale this 30-year-old melody, feels like the only way to close the curtain on this story".

About Marionette Noir: Marionette Noir is the musical project of a Minnesota-based digital marketing specialist and songwriter. Focused on the genres of Melodic Noir and Gritty Soul-Blues, the project explores themes of theatricality, cinematic storytelling, and the reclamation of a long-held creative archive.
