(Verse I)

I used to tell myself
This is safe, this is fine
We had an understanding
A clear boundary line
Our rule was always disclosure
For safety and trust
You were future faking
With the words that you said
Building a false life inside of my head
Then the quick vanishing acts
The work alibis
But I walked right into
The middle of your lies
You said, Show up anytime
I've got nothing to hide
But now I can't even look into
Your soulless eyes

(Verse II)

The moment you saw me
The weather went cold
The truth was out and your fury took hold
To make her think I was crazy
You shouted your lie
We were never together
Trying to erase all our history
You shouted the truths
I told you in good faith
You used my transparency
To secure your escape
Your toxic rage was just
Proving the size of your lie
That's the noise you make
When you're trying to hide

(Chorus)

The scene moved outside to my car
And your rage was a weapon
You cleared out your shit
That you let yourself step in
You challenged me fiercely
About why I showed up at all
While the other girl watched
And the whole scene grew small
You called me the kettle black
You called me unstable
While you stood there a liar
Right at your own table
I stood my ground clutching
The keys you threw at me
I seized back the car
That I let you drive freely

(Bridge)

I was backing out slow
Needing my peace
Determined to make all your chaos cease
You ripped her car past
To take my old place
A cold final message I will never erase
As I reached the driveway
Your thunderous threat for her ear
Hoping that final noise
Would give you back some fear

(Outro)

You don't get the last word after all that
Noise I saw your true failure
And that's all I need
I yelled back, "You will never see me again!"
You're DEAD TO ME
I drove away and with every hard mile I felt
Less anxious and more free

DEAD TO ME...
